Our fashion team spy the street styler's nailing this summer's key trends

KIM: If you've been looking for double denim inspiration, look no further. The frayed jean dress and flares combo is this season's trend heaven. The emerald green boxy jacket, the snake-print lace-up heels and the patent bag are what make this a standout look for me, though.

CLAIRE: Cropped jacket, double denim and flares all in S/S15's boldest colours – this lady's top of the catwalk class. I love the clashing shades and strong lines created by the pockets and hems cutting her off at different points on the body. Someone's had an eye on the runway...

KIM: There's something very Alexa Chung about this outfit. While on paper long-sleeved, calf-length, polka-dot co-ords sound hard to pull off, this street styler rocks it. The cut-out shoes and round sunglasses add the right amount of edge to make this all so effortlessly cool.

CLAIRE: Polka dots don't have to be cutesy. Our girl proves that a few choice accessories can turn a twee print into an uber-cool look. I'll be taking tips from her styling book and teaming dotty co-ords with chunky heels, techno shades and an ice white backpack.

KIM: If you're going to rock one hot hue, why not make it magenta? This wide-leg jumpsuit has easy breezy summer style written all over it, while the ankle-tie heels and sunnies give an injection of icy pastel blue. The graffiti-print bag completes the look.

CLAIRE: Culotte jumpsuits can be a tough trend to wear well, but with powder blue shoes, matching sunnies and an arty bag, this fashionista masters it. The hot pink works with her pastel accessories and the chunky black watch hardens this look just a touch.
